

Dear FCC -

I write to express my support for Low Power FM Radio and I hope the commission will expand opportunities for this use of the public airwaves. In particular, I feel locally-focused radio stations will allow for better news reporting about local stories, more public participation/awareness of important local meetings and events, and more opportunities for all citizens to participate in producing media. Low power FM radio is an appropriate and salubrious use of the public airwaves, which should be expanded as much as possible.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Andrew Barker
